1.1 Preface

Allowances are paid to cover specific/special situations or the provision of services not normally required from the employees in the particular grade. Allowances take up a large portion of government expenditure, and every effort should be made to regulate related expenditure, as well as rationalise and streamline allowances.

In conformity with Article 2.4 of the Collective Agreement for Employees in the Public Service 2017 - 2024, benefits stipulated in this Manual are not additional to any similar benefits stipulated by Law, or by the enactment of legislation or as provided for by the respective Sectoral Agreement. In circumstances where benefits may be similar or overlap, the respective parties shall agree on which benefits are to be retained.

These guidelines provide an outline of the relevant policies on the management of allowances. Worked examples are also given, where applicable, in order to further simplify the computation of allowances and make this manual more user-friendly.

1.2 How to use this Manual

This manual is intended for officers responsible for People Management, HR Managers, staff in HR Departments, as well as public officers who are interested in the subject. The aim of this handbook is to guide on the management and processing of allowances. It provides useful information which should be taken into account when considering requests for the payment of allowances.

An important section of the manual specifically addresses the Audit Mechanism on the payment of Allowances. This control mechanism is built on two major principles:

- i. allowances are not meant to be paid throughout an officer's career and they should be withheld immediately if the conditions for the payment of the allowance are no longer applicable;
- ii. allowances are also to be graded in terms of the degree of disturbance, risk or skill involved.

The allowances included in this manual are standard allowances which are not exclusive to particular career streams, but are payable to officers across various departments and/or grades. The manual does not include specific Departmental Allowances, or honoraria paid to Members on Government Boards and Committees.

This manual is updated periodically to include new allowances or to reflect any new policy or initiative in the management of allowances that comes into effect.

1.3 Definitions

In the interest of clarity and consistency, the following terms should be understood as follows:

Allowance	Financial remuneration paid in addition to the basic salary, which may also include expenses for travel, rent, and subsistence, or for the performance of higher or dangerous duties, special functions or the attainment of qualifications. Allowances do not count for pension purposes, unless otherwise stipulated.
Entitlement	The benefits and rights of a public officer which emanate from the Public Service Management Code (PSMC).
Public Officer	The holder of any public office or a person appointed to act in any such office. The appointment of a public officer in a substantive post or contractual position is endorsed by the Public Service Commission.
On grounds of Public Policy	A period of time which counts as service in the grade for the purposes of promotion or progression. Officers on grounds of public policy will: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>- return to their substantive grade held immediately before the officer was granted leave on grounds of public policy;</li><li>- retain all rights and privileges applicable to their public office and those arising from the respective Classification Agreement;</li><li>- have their period of unpaid leave on grounds of public policy reckonable for pension purposes (this applies to pensionable officers under the Pensions Ordinance);</li><li>- have their social security rights acquired under the Social Security Act (Cap 318).</li></ul>

2.1 When to pay an Allowance

As a general rule, a public officer should only be paid an allowance in exceptional circumstances. Allowances should only be paid when the work involves:

- i. substantial extra attendance at hours which cannot be easily controlled and/or for which it would not be cost-effective to pay overtime;
- ii. a strong element of disturbance, discomfort or risk;
- iii. the use of some special skill which the holder of a post is not expected to possess and for which it is economically feasible to pay an allowance.

With regard to particular allowances, the concept of a graded rate has been introduced. Allowances are being graded in terms of the degree of disturbance, risk or skill involved.

When the conditions under which an allowance was granted change, it is the responsibility of the respective Head to withhold the allowance immediately. In this sense, allowances are paid in exceptional circumstances and should never be regarded as an automatic augmentation of the pay package/salary.

Whenever a job entails an element of risk and danger, the respective Head, in consultation with the Health and Safety officer, should first ensure that all the necessary Health and Safety measures are being taken (including protective clothing and equipment). If the nature of the work still carries an element of danger or inconvenience, consideration for the payment of an allowance should then be given.

When an officer qualifies for different allowances which are awarded for the same type of work/situation, the highest should be paid.

2.2 Steps to be followed for the payment of an Allowance

A request for a new allowance or review of an existing allowance is made by the respective Director and referred to the People Support & Wellbeing (PSW) Directorate within the People & Standards Division (P&SD) for consideration, through the respective Director responsible for People Management.

a. A request for a new allowance should include:

- Amount of allowance being recommended. In determining this amount, an allowance should not be tied to an officer's scale but to the actual situation for which the allowance is being requested (that is, the nature of the job, risk involved and/or expertise required).
- Justification for the need to pay an allowance.
- Estimated number of employees who will be receiving the proposed allowance, their grade / scale.

b. A request for a review of an allowance should include:

- Justified reasons why the allowance needs to be reviewed.
- Estimated number of employees who will be benefiting from the revised allowance, indicating their grade / scale.

As a general rule, the conditions for the payment of an allowance remain the same for a period of five (5) years, unless there is a request from the respective Director, with justified reasons, to review an existing allowance. Prior to final approval, the PSW Directorate may request the Ministry concerned to submit further documentation and/or clarifications.

The allowance may also be approved subject to particular conditions. (e.g. an allowance for performance of higher duties is approved subject to review within six (6) months).

2.3 Role of the respective Director

The respective Director is responsible for the systematic and periodic review of allowances paid to employees and to ensure:

- i. that the original conditions for which an allowance has been granted still apply, and if not, to immediately withhold the payment of such an allowance.
- ii. that the review is carried out on time, in respect of allowances which have been granted for a specific period of time. If it results that there is ample justification to continue with the payment of the allowance, the respective Director should make a fresh submission to the PSW Directorate three (3) months prior to the expiration of the period of approval. Directors are to state whether the conditions under which the allowance was paid still apply and to confirm that it is not possible to make other arrangements to suppress it.
- iii. the reasonable grading of allowances in terms of the degree of disturbance, risk or skill involved. Whenever an officer who is in receipt of these allowances is transferred to other duties, the respective Director should decide whether the public officer should still receive the allowance. If the allowance is graded, the respective Director should carry out a review of the grading.

2.4 Role of the respective Director responsible for People Management

The responsibility for the approval of allowances has been delegated to Directors responsible for People Management who are responsible to:

- i. Ensure that adequate documentation is obtained from the respective Director regarding each officer who receives an allowance. Such documentation should certify that the conditions pertaining to the allowances are still applicable. Audits on such matters should be carried out at the beginning of each calendar year.
- ii. Exercise the necessary control and ensure that the guidelines on the payment of allowances are strictly adhered to before payments of allowances to the respective beneficiaries are made.
- iii. Audits may be performed to ensure that allowances are paid to officers who are justifiably entitled to such, at the right levels and that the correct amount is paid.

2.5 Deduction of Allowances

Allowances are paid for actual work performed and they should be immediately withheld when such work is not being performed. All allowances should cease immediately in the following instances:

1. When an officer is on leave without pay;
2. When the actual performance of particular work for which an allowance is paid is no longer performed, for example, when the performance of obnoxious duties or disturbance to perform duties outside one's normal working schedule ceases; and
3. During pre-retirement leave. Officers on a performance agreement are not excluded from availing themselves of pre-retirement leave, but all allowances should be withheld while they are on pre-retirement leave. Allowances for officers on a performance agreement include all supplementary payments and other benefits payable in terms of the Performance Agreement, over and above the basic salary.

All automatic or fixed allowances, which are specifically incorporated in the pay package, will not be deducted for absences owing to vacation leave, public holidays, fifteen (15) days of sick leave (whether taken at a stretch or otherwise), marriage/civil union leave, maternity leave, paternity leave, adoption leave, bereavement leave and thirty (30) days special sick leave owing to injury specifically attributable to duty in every calendar year. Apart from arrangements covered by the Classification Agreements, payment of allowances should be withheld for any other absences, whatever the reason, apart from arrangements covered by the Sectoral Agreements.

Allowances should be deducted when public officers are on un/paid leave on grounds of public policy. The qualification allowance should continue to be paid when officers are on paid leave on grounds of public policy. However, it should be withheld when officers, on paid leave on grounds of public policy, are absent beyond the limits set in the preceding paragraph. Allowances are not deducted during duty leave.

Allowances are to be deducted, as indicated in the formula below, for each day of absence.

Standard Allowances (Payable Across All Ministries)

3.1 Allowances Related To Management

3.1.1 Acting Allowances for 'Acting' Heads of Department and Substitution Allowance for other 'Acting' Headship positions

Applicability

Acting Allowance – Senior public officers who are performing 'acting' duties of Heads of Department or of other offices with statutory powers that are required by law, as per Schedule 2 of the Public Administration Act (PAA).

Substitution Allowance – Senior public officers who are performing 'acting' duties of 'other' Headship positions that are neither Heads of Department nor occupy offices with statutory powers that are required by law, as per Schedule 2 of the PAA.

Beneficiaries

Remuneration Payable in Respect of Acting/Substitution Allowance

Beneficiaries	Remuneration Payable in Respect of Acting/Substitution Allowance
Scenario 1 – Senior public officers appointed to perform duties in an acting capacity in a Headship position but ceasing to perform the duties of the substantive office.
a. If the substantive salary is higher than the minimum salary of the acting position.  [DG performing 'acting' duties of Director]	Only the substantive salary is to be paid.
b. If the substantive salary is lower than the minimum salary of the acting position.  [Director performing 'acting' duties of DG / AD performing acting duties of Director]	An acting/substitution allowance equivalent to half the difference between the salary of the acting position and the salary of the substantive office is to be paid. Increments earned in the substantive office, as well as other personal allowances to which officers may be entitled on account of their substantive office should still be paid, provided that the global emoluments (salary + increments + allowances) do not exceed the emoluments (salary + expense allowance) of the acting office.
c. If the substantive salary is equal to the salary of the acting position.  [Director performing acting duties of Director]	Only the substantive salary is to be paid.

Beneficiaries*Remuneration Payable in Respect of Acting/Substitution Allowance

Scenario 2 – Senior public officers appointed to perform duties in an acting capacity in a Headship position and concurrently performing the duties of the substantive office.
a. If the substantive salary is higher than the minimum salary of the acting position.  [DG performing acting duties of Director]	An acting/substitution allowance equivalent to half <sup>1</sup> the difference between the salary of the substantive office and the salary of the acting position is to be paid. Increments earned in the substantive office as well as other personal allowances to which officers may be entitled to, on account of their substantive office, should still be paid.
b. If the substantive salary is lower than the minimum salary of the acting position.  [Director performing acting duties of DG or AD performing acting duties of Director]	An acting/substitution allowance equivalent to the difference between the salary of the acting position and the salary of the substantive office is to be paid. Increments earned in the substantive office, as well as other personal allowances to which officers may be entitled to, on account of their substantive office, should still be paid, provided that the global emoluments (salary + increments + allowances) do not exceed the emoluments (salary + expense allowance) of the acting office.
c. If the substantive salary is equal to the salary of the acting position.  [Director performing acting duties of Director]	An acting/substitution allowance equivalent to half <sup>2</sup> the difference between the salary of the substantive grade and the salary of the immediate higher office is to be paid. Increments earned in the substantive office, as well as other personal allowances to which officers may be entitled to, on account of their substantive office, should still be paid.

Except for an acting/substitution allowance, employees appointed in an acting capacity are not entitled to any allowances/benefits tied to the acting position.

<sup>1</sup> 'Half the difference' between salary of higher office and salary of substantive office is paid because if 'the full difference' had to be paid, the salary of Director General + acting allowance would exceed the salary of a Permanent Secretary.

<sup>2</sup> 'Half the difference' between salary of substantive grade and the immediate higher office is paid because if 'the difference' had to be paid, the salary of Director + acting allowance would be equivalent to the salary of a Director General.

Except for an acting/substitution allowance, employees appointed in an acting capacity are not entitled to any allowances/benefits tied to the acting position.

3.1.2 Deputising Allowance

Beneficiaries

Public officers of a certain rank who, in addition to their normal day-to-day duties, are also charged with the carrying out of higher duties in key positions in Categories 'A' and 'B' (Scales 1-10).

Last approved rates

The allowance payable will be the difference between the officer's present salary and the minimum of the next higher grade, to be not less than one increment in the higher scale. The deputising allowance will be augmented by one increment in the higher scale for every period of twelve (12) months on deputising duties, provided that the maximum of the higher scale is not exceeded.

Worked Example

Principal (Scale 9 Step 3) who, in addition to the normal day-to-day duties, is required to perform the duties of an Assistant Director.

The deputising allowance will be the difference between the officer's present salary and the minimum of the next higher grade, to be not less than one increment in the higher scale.

Working

Minimum of the next higher grade (i.e. Senior Principal Officer at Scale 7) = €23,431.00, less officer's present salary at Scale 9 Step 3 = €20,590.00 + €447.33 + €447.33 = €21,484.66

Total emoluments

Salary of Senior Principal Officer	€23,431.00
- Salary of Principal (Scale 9 Step 3)	€21,484.66
= Total emoluments	€1,946.34

N.B. Rates in worked examples are as per 2018 rates as specified in the Collective Agreement for Employees in the Public Service 2017 - 2024.

Other conditions of payment

- i. The position for which the allowance is to be paid is considered to be a key position within the Directorate (e.g. at least a Head of a large section or branch, or of an area office or of a small department);
- ii. An officer has been formally assigned in writing by the respective Head of Department to deputise in a senior position;
- iii. The deputising is made for a period exceeding one (1) month; (the payment of the allowance will start after the first month of deputising but will cover the whole period of deputising);
- iv. The senior position has been declared vacant following the promotion, retirement, resignation of the former incumbent. Absence on long leave by the holder of the senior position does not qualify for payment of the allowance;
- v. The officer in receipt of the allowance continues to perform his day-to-day duties in addition to carrying out the duties and assuming the full responsibility of the senior position.
- vi. The payment of this allowance will be approved by the respective Head of Department but, before payment is made, the respective Director responsible for People Management will seek the endorsement of the People Support & Wellbeing Directorate. Evidence must be produced to show that the request satisfies the conditions listed above.

In cases of Nursing and Midwifery Professions, approval is obtained from PS, Ministry for Health or PS, Ministry for the Family, Children's Rights and Social Solidarity (as applicable) instead of the PSW Directorate. Such delegated authority is only applicable for deputising periods not exceeding 12 months, following which, approval would be required from the People Support & Wellbeing Directorate.

When officers are requested to take over responsibility for the running of a ward, the requirement of (iv) above is waived.

- vii. Officers, who following a selection process are appointed to the same grade for which they were deputising shall, on a notional basis, have the period in which they were deputising recognised for the computation into the new salary scale and step.

Clarification

It must be stressed that the carrying out of higher duties does not, as a rule, qualify for the payment of an allowance.

Other conditions of payment

The payment of a qualification allowance, as defined above, is subject to the following conditions:

- a) only one qualification (the highest) is to be paid;
- b) if the applicant was successfully appointed to the post/position advertised in a call for applications and the qualification was an eligibility requirement, the qualification allowance is not payable.

A public officer becomes entitled to receive the payment of the qualification allowance for a first degree, either where the degree is:

- i. not a pre-requisite; or
- ii. additional to the pre-requisite qualification for appointment and has been obtained at the request of the Government or is in a specialised area which is of interest to one's respective Directorate. However, the entitlement to an allowance in terms of this subparagraph shall not apply in the case of officers appointed to a post in virtue of their possession of a first "General" degree and then proceed to obtain a follow-up First "Honours" degree.

In the case of the payment of an allowance for a diploma, the diploma offered by an officer where the entry requirement is at degree level, should be a post-graduate diploma. However, in the case of the General Service grades, holders of a Diploma in Public Administration are entitled to the payment of the relative qualification allowance even if the officers have entered the Public Service in virtue of their possession of a degree.

- c) where a qualification is one of more qualifications, each of which constitutes an eligibility requirement (on its own merits) in a call for applications, a qualification allowance in respect of the additional or the higher qualification is to be paid even if the applicant was successfully appointed to the post/position advertised in the said call for applications;
- d) if an applicant is in receipt of a qualification allowance which was not a pre-requisite for appointment to the applicants' immediate grade, but which qualification entitles the applicant to an accelerated promotion or progression by virtue of the relevant Classification and Grading Agreement, the applicant will be entitled to a qualification allowance even upon promotion or progression to a higher salary scale.
- e) where officers apply for payment of a qualification allowance but have continued their studies to obtain a higher qualification, employees are to request the educational institute concerned and the National Commission for Further and Higher Education (NCFHE) to confirm that:
  - i. the relevant course has been successfully completed;
  - ii. the qualification that would have been obtained, if they had not continued their higher studies, would have been recognised; and
  - iii. the relevant MQF level.

Once confirmation is received, the approving authority may proceed with the payment of the respective qualification allowance.

- f) It is recognised that some Classification and Grading Agreements may provide marginally more advantageous conditions for the payment of a qualification allowance than the standard provisions outlined in the Manual of Allowances. In cases of disagreements between the standard provisions and Classification and Grading Agreements, the more advantageous provisions will continue to apply.
- g) A limited number of Agreements include additional conditions for the payment of the allowance which are specific to the particular Class (e.g. in the case of the Technical Class, possession of the Higher Technician Diploma and/or the Ordinary Technician Diploma do not attract an allowance. In the case of the Learning Support Assistant and Kindergarten Assistant Grades, a Kindergarten Assistant in possession of the Diploma in Facilitating Inclusive Education and receiving the relevant Allowance is expected to perform duties as Learning Support Assistant). These specific conditions will likewise continue to apply.
- h) It is the responsibility of applicants for a qualification allowance to produce evidence of the recognition, comparability or accreditation of their qualifications. Such statements can be obtained by using the online application on the NCFHE website (accessible at <http://www.ncfhe.org.mt>), and should be attached to the application for a qualification allowance. The date of submission of the request for a qualification allowance or the date when the said statement is submitted or produced, whichever is the latest, will be considered as the application date for a qualification allowance.
- i) Employees who are currently reading for a higher qualification shall benefit from the allowance upon successful attainment of the respective qualification.
- j) Employees who will be granted a full or partial funded course of study through a sponsorship by the Government of Malta, will benefit from the respective qualification allowance after the successful completion of the said course of study and also the lapse of the service obligation as outlined in the respective undertaking signed by the employee.

Clarification

An award is an accredited course which does not fulfil the entire requirements of a qualification in terms of the minimum number of credits established by the National Commission for Further and Higher Education. In this regard, it is being clarified that, as distinct from a qualification, an Award does not entitle a public officer to qualification allowance.

Approving Authority

The respective Director responsible for People Management who must certify that:

1. the qualification obtained is relevant to the duties of the officer requesting the qualifications allowance; and
2. conditions of payment (a - j above), have been satisfied.

3.3.7 Regulation of Mobile Phones in the Public Service

The use of mobile phones in the Public Services is regulated by the following conditions:

- a) requests by public officers for the use of a mobile phone at Government expense should invariably be addressed to the respective Permanent Secretaries, who will use their good judgement to determine whether requests are justified in the light of the nature of the officers' duties and of the availability of funds. Requests by officers in grades or positions below that of Director should only be granted on an exceptional basis when the nature of the officers' duties specifically demands it (e.g. civil protection, security, field work);
- b) bills issued in relation to the use of mobile phones should be issued on an itemised basis, giving details of all local and international calls as well as any charges incurred for other services;
- c) expenses incurred on local and overseas calls and on any other services which are not made on official business are to be refunded by the beneficiary to the Department or Ministry concerned;
- d) in the case of all public officers who are entitled to the use of a mobile phone, the maximum expenditure to be covered by Government has been established at €815.28 per annum. Expenditures above this ceiling would have to be refunded. However, there may be exceptional situations where a higher expenditure may be allowed, subject to the specific approval of the responsible Permanent Secretary;
- e) in those cases where it is considered necessary to provide the use of a mobile phone to a group of employees in virtue of special conditions of employment, the grant of such a benefit should be cleared a priori with the People & Standards Division but should also be subject to the approval of the responsible Permanent Secretary; and
- f) new mobile phones, inclusive of any accessories, purchased for official use should not exceed €186.35. Should beneficiaries opt to purchase a mobile phone costing more than this amount, they should top up the capped amount, out of pocket.

It is the specific responsibility of Directors responsible for People Management to ensure that this regulatory framework is adhered to in all the Departments of their Ministry.

3.4 Allowances Related To Study

The allowances and the terms on which these allowances are payable are issued in the Manual on Staff Development in Public Administration issued by the Institute for the Public Services.

After how many days sick leave should a pensionable public officer have his allowances deducted?

Allowances should be deducted after fifteen (15) days sick leave. This is applicable to all categories of staff, both to non-pensionable public officers who are entitled to thirty (30) days sick leave on full-pay and thirty (30) days on half-pay per year and pensionable public officers who are entitled to six (6) months sick leave on full-pay in every twelve (12) month period.

What is the difference between stand-by allowance and disturbance allowance?

A stand-by allowance is paid to officers who are required to be on standby at home, outside office hours. When officers on stand-by at home are called to report for work they are remunerated at overtime rates.

A disturbance allowance is paid in circumstances where public officers are required to work regularly after office hours or undertake duties of an extraordinary nature beyond office hours.

Can a public officer receive more than one allowance at the same time?

A public officer may be paid more than one allowance at the same time, provided that all the allowances are paid on account of different circumstances and conditions. For example, an Architect may receive a qualification allowance, an allowance for Obnoxious and Hazardous duties for works at heights, and a deputising allowance at the same time.
